

Miss (save the) USA

By Sophia Dowson-Collins

Gentlemen
and ladies, (blacks, Mexicans and refugees)
Our whites our men our beloved country.
Contestants, your first question
When exactly was America, Great?
Miss Eden, this ones for you.
“Well ever since I left the garden, shits been pretty bad.”
Eve you hardly can complain
you ate the apple, and you’re fat
Where do you see yourself in coming years?
“Going back to Eden.
Failing that,
disappear behind my pussy, I suppose.
The sea levels are rising
the world is fucking up,
May I speak freely, Mr. Trump?
pease unhand my buttock”
Eve you are quite stupid,
you believe in that silly hoax?
“I think a storm is coming”
And now cast your votes!

Website Objectives

The user is Eve as she travels through a surreal contemporary world to show current global warming issues and promote people to take active roles in helping remedy the situation.

User will have option to send eve in different places like:

- returning back to Eden (to find a wasteland)
- going to the city
- other surreal compositions

Finally the user will be presented with various sites that give them inspiration on ways to help and get involved in reducing climate change. Mix of different types of sites:

- epa.gov
- nationalgeographic.com/environmental/global-warming/pollution
- more artistic representations of global warming and waste issues

I want to maintain a humorous and satirical approach to the topic.

Very interactive and explorative site.

Audience Objectives

Learn about global warming

Be inspired by linked websites to how they could help aid the situation

Creative Inspiration

Begin with simple collages Paul Rand style and more abstract shapes > progress to more chaotic collages like Dada artists.

Graphics and images all made from collages of found images etc to convey the feeling of familiarity that we have with these issues and thus create a sense of solidarity.
